With a little help
From my friends!

This guide would not have been possible without the support and efforts of my loving wife Sue, who not only assisted with research, but also did the proofreading, suggested improvements, and contributed to the design and production plans of this book.

I also gratefully acknowledge the following people and organizations for their tremendous support in the historic research and photographic contributions that helped make this book possible.

Tommy Towery is a faithful writer, famous rememberer, and gifted compiler of stories. He binds us together as he writes of the people, places, and things that comprise our early history in Huntsville. He takes us on memory trips where we can relax and enjoy the ride because he is such a great driver. Tommy is our friend, classmate, and chronicler. No other group lived the lives we shared and no one has collected or tells the stories from that era better than Tommy does. — Jim McBride
