

The lack of inscribed tombstones in the Landman Cemetery belies its significance to the pioneer days of the arsenal lands. The Landman family was intertwined with many of the prominent landowners of earliest settlement of the area, and many of their descendants live in the region to this day.

Prepared by John P. Rankin, August 28, 2005