

Other than conjecture based upon the named slaves in the 1829 - 1844 estate papers of William Landman, it cannot be proven which slaves were buried in the Landman Cemetery II, 34-2. Even those whose names were dropped from the 1844 list may not be buried here. They may have been moved away with the heirs to other counties and states, to be buried in new locations. So far as is known, this little cemetery was not used for burials after the Civil War and slave emancipation, but even that is conjecture.

Prepared by John P. Rankin, August 28, 2005