

Dodd Road. Upon issuance of a gate pass, one can drive into the controlled area (assuming there is no hazardous testing in progress in the area) and back north to the cemetery, which is located in the NW/4 of S5-T5-R1W.

The cemetery has an old wire fence around its perimeter. It is not enclosed by a modern chain link fence of the type found around most cemeteries on the arsenal, perhaps because this area is NASA-controlled. There are about 50 graves in evidence at the cemetery, but it has room to contain between 80 and 100 graves, if filled. There is only one inscribed marker as of December 16, 2002. However, there are 4 small concrete markers in the shape of a cross and several fieldstones plus a few metal flower holders in the cemetery.

The inscribed marker is for Beulah Love, with birth date given as April 17, 1880 and death date as January 3, 1925.
