

Metal Funeral Home marker in Powhaton-Toney Cemetery, Redstone Arsenal, Madison County AL, March 3, 2003

It may be that the Royal Funeral Home conducted the funeral and emplaced the metal marker, since that funeral home did inter a number of people in the arsenal cemeteries. It is not known whether they have serial numbers of the markers recorded, or if there is enough of this number legible to determine the deceased's name from them, if they did in fact conduct the funeral.

When the effort to explore this cemetery was first undertaken, it was thought that the name Powhaton Toney was actually two different surnames. Thus, the name in the caption of the photos is hyphenated. However, it is now known that Powhaton Toney was indeed one man's name in the area. His marriage record is shown below:
