While the above Ahnentafel does not show any of the descendants of the Theophilus Lacy who owned land around the arsenal cemetery, it does show his ancestors and Hopkins Lacy as his uncle. Additional data about the relationships (business and personal) between the Lacy family members and the Howell family members who are buried in the Lacy Cemetery (75-1) can be seen in additional communication from Dennis Simpson below and in the records which follow:

I am not sure if you know this or not, but west of present day Ditto's Landing Marina across the Highway stood the town of Liberty. It was founded by Dr. William Simpson, Hon. Hopkins Lacy, Thomas Austin, William Robinson. Dr. Simpson died in 1816, William Robinson and Thomas Austin both died in 1819 and Hopkins Lacy purchased their interest. Lacy died 1831. Thomas Austin's widow married Joseph G. Jacobs, who I believe was the white father of Frank Jacobs.
