

LACY CEMETERY, 75 – 1

Summary Report

Lacy Cemetery, 75-1, Redstone Arsenal, Madison Co. AL, May 1, 2003
Large stump to right of center, box crypt to left of center

At the time of the 2003 visit to this cemetery, it was within the bounds of a highly secure area. Therefore, casual or impromptu visits are not allowed. The cemetery is the resting place of some of the early pioneer families of Madison County. It is found at the line between Sections 13 and 14 of Township 5, Range 1 West. The cemetery is entirely within Section 14, at the north-south midpoint of the Southeast Quarter section line on the east.

Lacy Cemetery, 75-1, Redstone Arsenal, Madison Co. AL, May 1, 2003
Box crypt of Mary W. Lacy at left; crypt of Alberta Ann Howell (collapsed) beside partially standing crypt of Prudence K. Howell. Dorothy Scott Johnson in her book "CEMETERIES OF MADISON COUNTY, ALABAMA, VOL. 1" (1971) had a note as follows for these crypts: "...identical box-type tombs unlike any others found in Madison County. Most box type tombs are made of plain quarried stone slabs; the above three were cast in cement with molded sides and ends."

The land where the cemetery is located was first purchased from the U. S. Government in 1813 by Alexander Grey Wall, as shown in the photo of the pertinent page of the Government Tract Book below. Ownership passed from Alexander to Conrad Wall (probably by inheritance, but probate records have not yet been checked). Conrad Wall sold the land to Alfred Howell, per a deed recorded in 1828, as shown in the Madison County Reverse Index to deeds. Alfred Wall sold it to Theophilus Lacy in 1838, per the next deed index shown below. It is from Theophilus Lacy and his wife Mary W. Harris that the cemetery draws its name, even though there are more marked Howell graves than marked Lacy graves here. In fact, there is only one Lacy marked grave – that for Mary W. Lacy, wife of Theophilus.

The second entry line above shows Alfred Howell's purchase of land in 1828 from Conrad Wall, per Deed Book L, page 406. The name of Conrad Wall does not appear again with respect to any other land transaction in Madison County records examined to date, nor in the census records for the county. Moreover, it is not included in the family histories for the Madison County Walls. Even more strange, the date of the sale of this land by Conrad Wall falls within the lifetime of Alexander G. Wall, who died in 1836. Therefore, it is not likely that ownership of the land passed by inheritance from Alexander to Conrad, who is not among the children of Alexander G. Wall according to various sources that have been examined. Perhaps Alexander's full name was Conrad Alexander Grey Wall.

Lacy Cemetery, 75-1, Redstone Arsenal, Madison Co. AL, May 1, 2003

The inscription on the tablet of her box crypt states that Mary W. Lacy was the wife of Theophilus Lacy. They were married 20 April 1835 in Madison County, Alabama. The inscription further states that she died 25 June 1836. It is possible that she died in childbirth or soon afterward, from an infection or other complication associated with the birth of a child. Her husband Theophilus was born in 1806, according to the records of Maple Hill Cemetery in Huntsville, where he is buried with his subsequent wife, Fannie (Frances H. Binford). However, most research results point very definitely to a birth year of 1804 for Theophilus. The Maple Hill record shows that Theophilus “died 29 July 1876, at age 70”, whereas his last wife Fannie died 17 March 1891, also at age 70. The Lacy family history as published by descendant Dennis William Simpson in his book DOCTOR WILLIAM SIMPSON is summarized in the pages excerpted from his book below:

DOCTOR WILLIAM SIMPSON

Theophilus Lacy was the son of Henry and Angelica Lacy. He was born November 4, 1736, at New Kent County, Virginia, and died about May 1777. The inventory of the estate of Theophilus Lacy was filed November 24, 1777, in Pittsylvania County, Virginia. Stephen Cocke became guardian of Batte Cocke Lacy, Betsey Lacy, Hopkins Lacy, Theophilus Lacy, John Lacy, Polly Lacy, and William Lacy, orphans of Theophilus Lacy, deceased. Theophilus Lacy married Martha Cocke, November 28, 1759, in Amelia County, Virginia.²³ She was the daughter of Abraham and Mary Batte Cocke. Martha (Cocke) Lacy's paternal grandfather Stephen Cocke, was a first cousin, of Elizabeth (Cocke) Cary, 12th G.G. Grandmother of the author. Theophilus Lacy and Martha Cocke were the parents of at least seven children.²⁴

1. Batte Cocke Lacy married Elizabeth Overton.
2. Betsey Lacy.
- * → 3. Hopkins Lacy married Marguerite Simpson, widow of Dr. William Simpson, q.v., of whom further.
- * → 4. Theophilus Lacy, died unmarried.
- * → 5. John Lacy was born in Virginia, and died August 13, 1826, at Lacy's Spring, Alabama. He was twice married, but the name of his first wife is not of record. John married secondly, Mary Henderson, daughter of Thomas and Jane (Martin) Henderson. She was also a sister of Governor Alexander Martin of North Carolina. Mary was born January 16, 1795, at Rockingham, North Carolina, and died July 4, 1850.²⁵ John had issue by both marriages, by his first wife he had:

1. Hopkins Lacy, II, was born January 1797. He married Susan Axton, February 14, 1832. They were the parent of at least five children:²⁶

1. Martha Lacy was born 1834. She married William M. Cruse, March 26, 1851.
2. Mary Elizabeth Lacy was born 1836. She married William E. Wright, November 29, 1851. (Admr. of James Dickson's Estate. James was the father-in-law of John Simpson, q.v.)
3. Elizabeth M. Lacy married William McLeod, son of Mary Simpson, q.v.
4. Hopkins Lacy, Jr., was born 1842.
5. Harriet Lacy was born 1843.

DOCTOR WILLIAM SIMPSON

Children of John Lacy by his second wife, Mary Henderson:

2. Theophilus Lacy, II, was born January 1, 1804. He married first, May W. Harris, April 24, 1835, and secondly, Frances Hardeman Binford, December 13, 1838.
3. Thomas Henderson Lacy was born June 11, 1806. He married Mary E. McClellan, August 7, 1834.
4. Frances Hardeman Lacy was born 1810, and died in his youth.
5. Alexander H. Lacy was born 1814. He married Sally C. Wall, October 19, 1842. She was a sister of Mary Elizabeth Wall, mother-in-law of Alexander Heath Simpson and Mary Ella Simpson, q.v.

6. Polly Lacy.

7. William Lacy married Sally B. Overton.

Hopkins Lacy was the son of Theophilus Lacy and Mary Batte Cocke. He was born about 1763, at Halifax County, Virginia. He lived for many years in Rockingham County, North Carolina, then migrated westward into Washington County, State of Franklin, [Tennessee]. In 1790, he began his practice of law. The next year Governor Blount appointed him to serve as an officer in the Militia. On June 16, 1792, Hopkins Lacy qualified before the County Courts to practice law in Knox County. Then, on June 11, 1793, he was admitted as attorney for Hamilton District, which consisted of Jefferson and Knox counties. On February 4, 1794, he served the Tennessee House of Representatives as a clerk. He served as Attorney General for Washington District on March 30, 1796.²⁷ In 1806, Hopkins Lacy became a trustee of Nancy Academy in Sevierville, Tennessee.²⁸ Hopkins Lacy wrote the following letter to John Coffee, and mailed it in care of Judge Jackson at Cumberland, Tennessee.²⁹

Mr. John Coffee

Cumberland

Judge Jackson

October the 9th 1799

Sir

When I was at your house in Cumberland, as well as I remember you told me Freel [sic] was to pay the cost of the suit your Father brought against him.

²⁹Andrew Jackson, Judge of the Tennessee Supreme Court from 1798 to 1804, and later became seventh president of the United States.

The above data shows that Theophilus Lacy, the husband of Mary W. Harris Lacy, was a son of John Lacy by his wife Mary Henderson. This Theophilus was identified in the book as “II”, since there were others with the same name in the area at the time. In fact, there were several generations of Theophilus Lacy in the family history, but the cemetery on Redstone Arsenal is associated with “Theophilus II”, as opposed to those others of the family referenced variously as Theophilus I or III or Senior or Junior. The research into the Madison County records of the family frequently involved two brothers of Theophilus -- Alexander H. Lacy and Thomas Henderson Lacy -- as will be seen later in this report. In fact, the wife of Alexander H. Lacy, Sallie C. (Wall) Lacy, was ultimately in control of much of the Lacy brothers’ lands after their deaths.

After the death of Theophilus in 1876, the land containing the arsenal cemetery appears to have been sold to William A. Wall by Sallie (Sarah) C. Lacy in 1881. The land transaction index prepared by G. W. Jones & Sons, Inc., for Section 14 of Township 5, Range 1 West, shows the transitions by quarter sections, and the images which follow show some more detail.

Sarah C. Lacy was first recorded as selling land (without her husband being noted in the Deed Index) in 1878. Sallie C. Wall married Alexander H. Lacy on 19 October 1842, per Madison County Marriage Records, Volume 4, page 655. For her to have control of the property rights to unilaterally enter into sales, Sallie's husband Alexander H. Lacy must have died before that land sale in 1881. (The last index record of a sale of land by Alexander was in 1855.) Alexander (or his wife or children) must have inherited the land from Theophilus after Theophilus' death in 1876. One other possibility is that Sallie was Administrator of the estate of Theophilus in order to sell his land, but if so, then the index is supposed to indicate that circumstance.

Accounts of the Wall family history in Ahnentafel form from on-line internet (Ancestry.com) sources and from a book by Dennis Simpson are shown below in order to provide some insights into the situation.

The above Ahnentafel not only shows the Wall family history, but it shows the relationship to Sugars Turner, another well-known and prominent pioneer of the early Madison County days. Sugars Turner was probably the most prolific land speculator in the history of the area. He bought and sold numerous tracts of land in north Alabama, including several that were later to become part of Redstone Arsenal. According to the Ahnentafel, Sugars Turner was a maternal uncle of Alexander Grey Wall. It is also interesting that the Blunt family was part of the heritage of the Madison County Wall family. As historians will recognize, the Blunt family included a governor of Tennessee and the namesake of a county in north Alabama. Dennis Simpson has published a book of the Simpson – Wall – Lacy and related families, wherein he states that Alexander G. Wall was a son of James Wall, not John Wall, as given above in the Ahnentafel.

Because of the close association of the Wall, McLeod and Steger families, an abbreviated Wall genealogy is presented here: In Mrs. Samuel Allen Wilkinson, D.A.R. application papers (National Number 39771). She descends from James Wall, ancestor of the Madison County family, as follows: Her parents were Alexander Heath Simpson, 1841-1919, and Helen Grey (Steger) Simpson, 1843-1898. Helen Grey Steger, was the daughter of Kennon Harris Steger, 1806-1892, and Mary Elizabeth Wall, 1821-1899, his wife. Mary Elizabeth Wall, was the daughter of Alexander Grey Wall, 1793-1836, and Mary Cooper, 1801-1869, his wife, they were married 1820. Alexander Grey Wall was the son of James Wall, 1760-1830, and Mary Turner, 1763-1838.

McLeod, Wife of William McLeod of Madison Co., Ala. I have made no bequest to the Children of my Brother Theophilus LACY* who were equally near to me, because they are already well provided for, their father being a man of considerable property. 14 Nov. 1863, at Mardisville, in the County of Talladega, Ala. Witnesses: M.H. Cruikshank, L.B. Ogletree, A.A. WALL, Mary Russell. Probated in Madison Co., Ala. Dec. 11, 1865; proved by oath of A.A. WALL.

* This is the Theophilus Lacy whose wife Mary W. Harris is buried in the Lacy Cemetery (75-1) on Redstone Arsenal in Madison County, AL.

These pages of Dennis Simpson's book show that Sarah ("Sallie") C. [Wall] Lacy, wife of Alexander H. Lacy, was the Executrix of his will, which was entered into probate in October of 1865. The will specifically named Theophilus and Thomas H. Lacy as his brothers, and Sallie as Executrix was given power to enter into land transactions for his estate. Exactly how Alexander's estate came to include the land of the cemetery is not yet known. However, another item of interest in the Wall family history by Dennis Simpson is the frequent mention of other notable pioneers of arsenal lands as being involved with the Lacy and the Wall family. For example, at one point, Alfred Howell is mentioned as an Adminstrator of the estate of Alexander Grey Wall, Sallie's father-in-law. Others mentioned and known to be prominent among the arsenal land pioneers were David Allison; James F. W. Smith (son of Hughey); William, James, and Charity Cooper; Lucy [Lanier] Ives [Clark]; and members of the McLeod / McCloud family.

It should be noted that Theophilus Lacy did not remain in residence on the land he owned that became arsenal property, as he always was enumerated in census records among the residents of the town of Huntsville. However, he was not found in Alabama in the 1830 census, even with a Soundex search. There is a possibility that he was in New Kent County, Virginia, in that census year, as the only "fit" for his name in any state in 1830 was a Theophilus A. Lacy, age 20 – 30, in that county. The record showed him with a wife age 20 – 30 and a daughter age 0 – 5. He was enumerated on the same page with a Bartholomew Lacy and other Lacy families, plus John Kirby and Merriweather Lewis and other Lewis families. These are all names of people known to be related to the Theophilus Lacy of Madison County or who later moved to the county, settling around Triana.

The 1840 census record for Theophilus shows some of the most prominent of early Huntsville citizens as his close neighbors. The 1840 census record below can be viewed at 200% for clarity and ease of reading, if using the CD-ROM. Otherwise, a good magnifying glass might suffice to see the neighbors of Theophilus Lacy in historic Huntsville. Several of the prominent, historic personages of the town entered into business relationships with Theophilus Lacy and / or Alfred Howell, two of whose daughters are also known to be buried in the Lacy Cemetery on the arsenal.

Data from Dennis Simpson of California indicates that an uncle of Madison County's Theophilus Lacy also was "the first banker in Huntsville" (see "communication of May 18, 2004" several pages below). The "first bank" in Huntsville was chartered in 1809, when Theophilus was only about 3 or 4 years old, so the early banker was no doubt the never-married Theophilus Lacy of Morgan County, an uncle of the Madison County Theophilus.

To recapitulate, the Theophilus Lacy associated with the arsenal cemetery was a farmer who lived in Huntsville rather than on the land that he owned around the cemetery. (At least, he lived in Huntsville after his first wife was buried on the pre-arsenal land. He may well have lived on the land around the cemetery while his wife Mary W. Harris Lacy was alive.) He was a son of John William Lacy, who along with his brothers Hopkins Lacy and another Theophilus Lacy moved to northern Alabama between 1807 and 1821. The older three Lacy brothers were all born in Virginia but moved to North Carolina and Tennessee before coming to northern Alabama. There were several sons named "Theophilus" in each generation of this family in America, so it is easy to see how confusion is created in the public records.

Accounts of the Lacy family settlement in northern Alabama are published in several sources. The one shown below is from an article written by Dennis Simpson about Dr. William Simpson, whose widow married Hopkins Lacy. Hopkins was first of the Lacy brothers to come to Madison County, but later residing in Morgan County, at the "Lacey's Spring" community. He was a close friend of Dr. William Simpson.

Nathan A. Simms was born February 5, 1881 in Lincoln County Tennessee, a son of George W. Simms and Martha Jones.

Minnie L. Sugg was born February 3, 1884 purportedly in Petersburg, Lincoln County, Tennessee. She was the daughter of Joseph Sydney Sugg and Mary Elizabeth McGee.

Nathan and Minnie were married June 30, 1901 in Lincoln County, Tennessee. They had two children: Oscar Washington Simms, born October 30, 1902 and Cornelia Martha Ann Simms, born May 22, 1905. Both children were raised in Lincoln County, Tennessee.

In 1942, Nathan and Minnie moved to Huntsville, Alabama and lived with their daughter Cornelia Simms Porter on McCullough Avenue. Nathan died in 1945 and is buried in Lincoln, Tennessee. Minnie died 21 June 1987 and is also buried at Lincoln.

After completing the second year of high school at Lincoln in 1922, Oscar met and later married Ethyl Lynn of New Market, Alabama. They were married in Madison County on 9 June 1923. They lived their early marriage years in Lincoln County Tennessee where Oscar Bryson, was born 19 December 1923, and Minnie Elizabeth, was born 31 January 1927.

In the late 1920's Oscar and Ethyl and two children moved to Huntsville, Alabama. On 12 June 1928, George Melvin Simms was born on Mills Street. Oscar had accepted a job with International Harvest and became a farm implement parts salesman.

In early 1931, the family moved to Hazel Green, also in Madison County. Here Nathan Wayne Simms was born 29 June 1931. Bryson and Elizabeth attended school at Hazel Green where Alva S. Simms was the principal.

Shortly after this, the family moved back to Huntsville and lived at several places before settling on Meridian Street in the early 1930's. Nina Irene Simms was born on 9 November 1934 and John Louis Simms was born on 14 January 1938. Bryson, Elizabeth, Melvin, and Wayne attended the Huntsville City schools. Elizabeth graduated in 1942, Bryson came home from World War II and graduated in 1946, Melvin graduated in 1947, Wayne in 1949, Irene in 1952, and Louis in 1956.

Oscar W. and Bryson served in the U.S. Navy during WWII. Oscar spent most of his time in the South Pacific. Bryson was a crew member of the troop transport torpedo boat and sank off the coast of Africa in 1942.

During the Korean War, Melvin served in the U.S. Air Force and Wayne served in the U.S. Navy. After graduating from high school, Louis also served in the U.S. Air Force.

Ethyl Simms died in Huntsville on 7 October 1963, and Oscar Simms died on 10 October 1964. Both are buried in State Line Cemetery north of Huntsville.

Bryson is now retired and lives in Cocoa Beach, Florida. Elizabeth and Irene are deceased. Melvin retired from the Marshall Space Flight Center and lives in Brownsboro, Alabama. Wayne is now residing in Montgomery, Alabama and Louis is retired and lives in Warwick, Georgia. See photo on page 408. Submitted by George Melvin Simms, 2770 Dug Hill Road, Brownsboro, AL 35744. Doctor William Simpson

William Simpson was born 1780,¹ at Ballymohery, County Londonderry, Ireland² and died in 1816, near Ditto's Landing, Mississippi Territory.³ He was buried at Hobbs Island, Madison county, Alabama in an unmarked grave.⁴

In Ireland, William Simpson received a commission as a Major in the United Irishmen. This was a Protestant organization whose goal was to gain equal representation in the British Parliament for Ireland's Catholics. After the unsuccessful rebellion of 1798, William Simpson was captured, and on March 12, 1798, was convicted of Treason, and sentenced to hang at Bantry Bay. He was imprisoned in the Donegal Arms for a short time, then released on bail, on condition he exile himself from the British Empire.⁵ He received an American passport and migrated to the United States about 1806.⁶ William Simpson left the emerald isle with his wife Marguerite, and quite possibly a younger brother, George Simpson accompanied them to America. Marguerite was pregnant with William's child and gave birth to their daughter Mary Simpson while on the voyage over.⁷

Dr. Simpson and his family came to Madison county, in 1807, when it was part of the Mississippi Territory prior to Alabama statehood. They were among the first white settlers of what is now Ditto's Landing, Alabama.

Dr. Simpson was listed in the 1809 squatters census,⁸ and staked out a squatter's claim near Ditto Landing then purchased it from the government land office in 1809, and went on to amass large land holdings in the area.⁹ He was very active in the formation of Madison county Government. He served on numerous court cases,¹⁰ was an overseer for the public road,¹¹ and was a charter member of Madison Lodge Number 21, the first Masonic Lodge in Alabama.¹²

During the War of 1812 William Simpson served as a Private and a Surgeon in the 7th Mississippi Regiment.¹³ Colonel Peter Perkins' Battalion of Mississippi Militia from Madison county, Perkins' Battalion came under General John Coffee's command in October 1813, and fought for Andrew Jackson in Alabama against the Red Sticks, a warring band of the Creek Nation.¹⁴ At Horseshoe Bend, Dr. Simpson help save the wounded leg of a young soldier named Samuel Houston, who later became President of the Republic of Texas. Dr. Simpson's death was apparently the result of an epidemic of some unknown malady, after the war was over.

After William Simpson death, his widow, Marguerite married the Hon. Hopkins Lacy, on July 15, 1817, in Madison county, Mississippi Territory.¹⁵ Hopkins Lacy was born about 1763, at Halifax county, Virginia, and died February 9, 1831, near Ditto's Landing, Alabama. He is buried beside his brothers and their families in the Bartee cemetery, Lacy's Spring, Alabama.¹⁶ Hopkins Lacy was the older brother of Theophilus and John Lacy, whom Lacy's Spring, was named.¹⁷

Hopkins Lacy was a member of the Tennessee House of Representatives, and Attorney General for the district of Washington prior to Tennessee statehood.¹⁸ A close friend of John Coffee and Andrew Jackson,¹⁹ Mr. Lacy accompanied them to Alabama after the Creek uprising in 1813. After hostilities ended Hopkins Lacy remained in Madison county and became closely associated with Dr. William Simpson. Marguerite preceded her husband Hopkins Lacy in death, she died before August 19, 1820.

Marguerite had the following children: 1. Mary Simpson, born 1808, on the boat coming from Ireland. Married May 22, 1822, George W. McLeod.²⁰ She died May 23, 1837, at Mardisville, Alabama.²¹ 2. John Simpson born 1811, at Ditto's Landing, Mississippi Territory.²² Married November 18, 1840, Margaret Ann Dickson.²³ He died January 27, 1876, at Pond Beat, Alabama.²⁴ 3. Murtha June Coker Lacy, born 1818, at Ditto's Landing, Mississippi Territory. Married September 24, 1835, Dr. Albert Russell, Jr.²⁵ She died January 20, 1864, at Huntsville, Alabama.²⁶

Dr. Simpson and his wife Marguerite were buried beside one another at Hobbs Island, Alabama, but their graves were never found. In September 1988, a Veteran Administration marker was placed at the Simpson cemetery commemorating Dr. Simpson's service in the War of 1812, by his great-great-grandson, Dennis Simpson. The Simpson cemetery, located east of Dadd Road inside Test Area, 1, is a small plot containing several 19th century burials.

The cemetery was established by Dr. Simpson's son John, whose family and descendants lived for many years on land that became Redstone Arsenal. The memorial service included a military color guard, a 21-gun salute which was followed by taps. The dedication was attended by numerous family members, a contingent and the two top Masons in Alabama.

William Simpson's descendants include the Hon. David Campbell Humphreys, Judge for the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia who was appointed by President Ulysses Simpson Grant. General John Alexander Steger. Madison county's last Confederate Soldier. John Russel Simpson, President of the Home-Stake Royalty Company. The Home-Stake companies are leaseholders of one of the richest oil fields in the world. Dr. Samuel Allen Wilkinson whose patients included the father of President John F. Kennedy; Queen Frederika of Greece; Mohandas Gandhi; and Sir Anthony Eden, Prime Minister of Great Britain. The following is a portion of a communication dated May 18, 2004, from Dennis Simpson regarding the Lacy family:

Another famous gentleman who settled in Madison County was the Honorable Hopkins Lacy. However, nothing is written about this illustrious gentleman, who arrived in the county from East Tennessee. More is written about his brother who was the first banker of the famous Bank sitting on top of the Big Spring in Huntsville, yet Hopkins Lacy a former Member of the House of Representatives from Tennessee has very little information written about him. He was an soldier in the American Revolution from Virginia and North Carolina. He was an officer in the Tennessee Militia appointed by Gov. Blount. He served as Attorney General for Washington District and was a Trustee of Nancy Academy in Sevierville, Tennessee. He was also a legal representative for both John Coffee and his brother-in-law Andrew Jackson who became President of the United States. Hopkins arrival into Madison County was about 1812 and he became an associate of Dr. William Simpson. Together they purchased land with William Robinson and Thomas Austin and created the Town of Liberty situated due west of Ditto's Landing. In 1820 Hopkins Lacy operated a ferry that ran from Liberty to what was known as Leeman's Ferry northwest of Lacy's Spring, which was settled by the Lacy family in 1823. John Lacy another brother was the first white settler in that area that was once was a Indian campsite. The town was first spelled Lacy Springs until some pre-civil war Postmaster changed it to today's spelling Lacey's Spring.

The only Lacy family genealogical data found on the internet (Ancestry World Tree) for the Theophilus Lacy family shows pretty close agreement with Dennis Simpson's accounts:

While the above Ahnentafel does not show any of the descendants of the Theophilus Lacy who owned land around the arsenal cemetery, it does show his ancestors and Hopkins Lacy as his uncle. Additional data about the relationships (business and personal) between the Lacy family members and the Howell family members who are buried in the Lacy Cemetery (75-1) can be seen in additional communication from Dennis Simpson below and in the records which follow:

I am not sure if you know this or not, but west of present day Ditto's Landing Marina across the Highway stood the town of Liberty. It was founded by Dr. William Simpson, Hon. Hopkins Lacy, Thomas Austin, William Robinson. Dr. Simpson died in 1816, William Robinson and Thomas Austin both died in 1819 and Hopkins Lacy purchased their interest. Lacy died 1831. Thomas Austin's widow married Joseph G. Jacobs, who I believe was the white father of Frank Jacobs.

Hopkins Lacy married Dr. Simpson's widow Marguerite (McAlpine) Simpson, she died giving birth to their only child, Martha Jane Cocke Lacy in 1818. Martha married Dr. Albert Russell. Relative of the owner of the Russell-Erskine Hotel in Huntsville. After their mother Marguerite's death about 1820, Hopkins Lacy raised his two step children: Mary and John Simpson. Mary married Hon. George. W. McLeod. Martha (Lacy) Russell and her husband are buried at Maple Hill Cemetery. Mary (Simpson) McLeod is buried in the Old Mardisville Cemetery, in Talladega County, Alabama. Her husband George McLeod's burial place is not known. Anyway, getting back to the town of Liberty. Apparently, it was a thriving city, but after Triana developed it along with Whitesburg died silent deaths. Not much is written about Liberty or Whitesburg, Alabama. All the glory seems to be with Huntsville. But it was Whitesburg/Ditto's Landing that was the very first white settlement in Madison County, Alabama. Hopkins Lacy is buried at Bartee Cemetery, in Lacey Spring, Alabama. He was a member of the Tennessee House of Representatives.

Hopkins Lacy is not the only Lacy family member buried in the Bartee Cemetery. In fact, John William Lacy, father of Theophilus of Madison County, is buried there, along with Theophilus' uncle Theophilus:

The above deed shows Alfred Howell's purchase of town lots in Liberty (immediately west of Ditto's Landing) from pioneers Timmons and McLeod, who were nearby landowners to the Lacy family on pre-arsenal lands. The town of Liberty was apparently never populated, as it was a speculative venture that fizzled due to the growing importance of the town of Triana for shipping cotton from Huntsville. The prominence of Triana was established by Thomas Fearn and his brother, who dredged the Spring Branch from Huntsville to its confluence with Indian Creek at Looney's Mill. This established the Indian Creek Navigation Canal, which enabled paddlewheel steamboats to pick up cotton at Looney's Landing, as the site became known. While it was the Fearn's enterprise that killed the planned town of Liberty, they also entered into land transactions with Alfred Howell, who likewise was involved in the acquisition of the Looney tract for the Navigation Company.

Other than the land transactions and census records of 1830 and 1840, very little is known of Alfred Howell and his family from local data. What is known from the census data is that in 1830 his family was recorded as being comprised of one male age 30 – 40 (Alfred himself), two females age 0 – 5, one female age 10 – 15, and one female age 30 – 40 (Alfred's wife Sarah G. Howell). They lived in Township 5 in 1830, which only indicates that they were in the general area around the cemetery, but definitely living in the southern portion of the county.

The 1840 census shows the Howell family still in the southern portion of the county, but a list of their neighbors on the census page indicates that they were living in Huntsville, which is indeed in the southern portion of the county, but just barely. The Howell's neighbors included William and Charles Patton, Albert Russell, Richard Purdom, William J. Mastin, John Read, and Robert Fearn. The Howell family in 1840 was enumerated as consisting of one male age 5 – 10, one male age 15 – 20, one male age 40 – 50 (Alfred), one female age 0 – 5, two females age 5 – 10, and one female age 40 – 50 (Sarah G. Howell).

When neither Alfred nor Sarah Howell were found in the 1850 Madison County census, a search was made of the entire state census records. When that also proved fruitless, a search was made of the entire United States census records. The only family that fit at all was for an Alfred Howell in Grimes County, Texas. He was given as age 52, born in Tennessee. He had no wife in his household at that time, indicating that Sarah G. Howell had died by 1850, either in Alabama or in Texas or along the way as the family moved.

The children of the Texas Howell household in 1850 were listed as: A. E. (male), age 18, born in Alabama; S. W. (female), age 16, born in Alabama; S. F. (female), age 13, born in Alabama; and James (male), age 21, born in Tennessee. James' wife was included in the household headed by Alfred Howell. This data indicates that the Howell family must have lived in Alabama in the early 1830s, then moved to Tennessee for a short time (where James was born) before returning to Madison County, Alabama. Of course, Sarah G. Howell could have been visiting her parents or someone else in Tennessee when James was born there, but we know that the Howell family was living in Madison County (Alabama) in 1830 and 1840. Unfortunately, the 1820 census data for Madison County was lost in antiquity, so there is no census record of the family in the county then. The early tax lists could reveal whether or not the family came to Madison County in the 1820s, but that has not yet been checked.

Internet data was checked for the Alfred Howells in America during the period, and only one was found, listed by 4 different authors at varying levels of detail. The more pertinent data from the on-line Ancestry.com sources are inserted below:

Alexander Grey Wall. The descendency list for Alfred Howell and his wife Sarah G. (maiden surname unknown) is given below:

The data from on-line sources generally supports that the Alfred Howell family in Grimes County, Texas, in the 1850 census is indeed the same as the family from Madison County, Alabama. The most salient aspect of this data is the identification of Mary Elizabeth Wall as being the first wife of Alfred Howell. Considering that she was a daughter of Alexander Grey Wall (initial owner of the land when the government allowed it to be purchased), it is pretty sure that she is buried in the cemetery also.

In fact, it is likely that Alexander Grey Wall himself is buried there, as he is not listed among those buried in Huntsville's Maple Hill Cemetery. Since Alexander G. Wall was a War of 1812 soldier, it would be appropriate to have a marker erected at the cemetery in his memory, if further proof of burial there can be found. For now, it is a mere deduction that he must be buried there, since he died in Madison County in 1836, and in those days people were generally buried on their own land. At that time, community and church cemeteries were not in widespread use, especially in the undeveloped portions of the county.

However, there is a problem with the data from the above on-line sources, in that Mary Elizabeth Wall was given as being born in 1821 in the book about Doctor William Simpson, as carefully written by detailed researcher and descendant Dennis William Simpson. His book further states that Mary Elizabeth Wall married Kennon Harris Steger in Madison County on December 12, 1838. Even a divorce, rather than death, to remove her as wife from Alfred Howell so that Sarah G. Howell could become the mother of Alberta Ann and Prudence K. Howell doesn't fit in order for Mary to marry Mr. Steger as a second marriage.

Alberta Ann Howell was born in 1828 and died in 1837, according to the inscription on her box crypt. Her sister Prudence K. was born in 1830 and died in 1840, according to her box crypt inscription. Both inscriptions plainly state that these girls were daughters of Alfred & Sarah G. Howell.

Accordingly, Sarah would have had to marry Alfred before 1828, the birth year of Alberta Ann Howell. If Sarah G. was Alfred's second wife, after Mary Elizabeth Wall, then Mary had to both marry and divorce Alfred before 1828, when Mary was only 7 years old, since she is reported to have been born in 1821. Obviously, there is a discrepancy between the sources, and it is unknown which is correct.

Still, a marriage connection of the Wall family with Alfred Howell does nicely explain the reasons that Howell graves are found in the Lacy Cemetery. In fact, this cemetery probably should be called the Wall Cemetery, as it almost certainly would have been initially the burial ground for Wall family members. The Lacy family apparently used the pre-existing cemetery for only one burial and then moved from the immediate area into the town of Huntsville, where the remainder of the family is buried in Maple Hill Cemetery. Likewise, the Howell family has only two known graves in the cemetery, and then they moved to Texas, so the cemetery is more likely truly representative of the earlier Wall family's deceased. In fact, the cemetery may well also be the final resting place for Sugars Turner, since he was a brother of Alexander G. Wall's wife, he lived in the immediate area (per early census records), and he is not listed as being buried in Maple Hill Cemetery in Huntsville.

The last of the inscribed tombstones in the Lacy Cemetery is for Jane S. Davies, 1784 - 1848:

JANE S. DAVIES, 8/29/1784 - 12/3/1848 (all but tip of stone buried)

There are two issues regarding this tombstone. One involves why the stone was buried so that only its topmost tip remained above ground. The other issue centers on the identity of Jane S. Davies and her relationship to the Howells, the Walls, the Turners, or the Lacys.

Dorothy Scott Johnson in her book CEMETERIES OF MADISON COUNTY, ALABAMA, Volume 1, states that she was told that a tornado had hit the cemetery on December 19 of 1967. She was further advised that the tornado had "... destroyed many of the stones, including some box tombs." Mrs. Johnson postulated that perhaps the tornado had driven the tombstone of Jane Davies deep into the ground, since it was found to be buried when she visited the cemetery in the late 1960s.

While tornadoes indeed do many very strange things, it would be truly miraculous for one to drive such a tombstone vertically into the ground to such a depth, without breaking or cracking it. Furthermore, tornado forces normally lift items upward. They do not generally produce downward forces on objects. Even if the tornado toppled a tree onto the stone, the expected result would be that the stone would simply be broken, and perhaps pieces of it would be blown away. That is definitely not the case here. The tombstone is precisely vertical, not leaning in any direction, and it had obviously not settled into a hole from any burrowing animals, as the earth was firmly packed around it and underneath it. It is not even credible that the stone simply settled into the grave when the coffin collapsed years after the burial, as it would then definitely have had a pronounced lean. The soil around the stone is firm, and there is absolutely no perceived lean in any direction. Additionally, there is no indication whatsoever of a grave depression to associate with a coffin collapse.

Moreover, the tombstone was not buried by a flood, as the terrain is on a slightly sloped high point in the area, and there were no indications of any flooding. For example, the box tomb for Prudence Howell that is within about 3 or 4 feet of the buried tombstone would be much more likely to show flood effects (debris entrapments) than a simple vertical stone, but there are no such indications. Still more unusual is the fact that the box tomb of Prudence Howell is positioned partially over the grave of Jane Davies, if Jane is in fact buried behind her headstone, to the west. That is doubly strange, since Jane's death date is 1848, whereas Prudence's death date is 1840. These dates would require that Jane's legs and feet were emplaced underneath Prudence's crypt, 8 years after Prudence was buried.

No reasonable explanations or supportable theories have yet been postulated about this grave arrangement, unless Jane is buried to the east of her headstone, which may be the case. However, that still leaves the question of why the stone itself is buried.

The question of the identity and relationships of Jane Davies presents another mystery that has not yet been solved. There were no records found to fit a Jane S. Davies or Davis or Daveys in Madison County of that time. This is true for Davies being either a maiden or a married surname. The closest “near match” encountered was in the land records for Samuel and Jane Davis, as shown in the land transaction index below:

This index record shows a Jane Davis with Samuel Davis selling land in 1817 in the northeastern part of Madison County. Samuel appears without Jane in a land transaction in 1831, still in the northeastern portion of the county. However, the Jane in the cemetery was still living in 1831, and if Samuel Davis had been her husband, then she should have been listed in the 1831 transaction.

Likewise, there were no probate or marriage records found for Jane or Samuel Davis, nor was there anything at all for Jane or Samuel Davies. Even the earliest census and tax records were not helpful toward identifying Jane. It seems that she and her tombstone must remain an enigma for the time being. In that capacity, Jane shares anonymity of sorts with the several unmarked graves in the cemetery. A couple of photographs of some of the unmarked, but obvious, graves are given below. There is nothing more known at this time that can be done to identify the occupants of these graves, so they will be respected as peaceful pioneers who rest eternally in this highly protected area.

(Note: The taped “stick” is a simple garden hoe handle with the blade removed from its mounting hook. The hook serves to probe under the surface a few inches and helps to find and turn tombstones that have fallen face down. The hoe handle further offers some protection and separation from snakes and other “critters” that may reside underneath fallen tombstones when exploring old cemeteries. It likewise provides a visual clue as to size of objects in photographs.)

Lacy Cemetery, 75-1, Redstone Arsenal, Madison Co. AL, May 1, 2003
Grave depressions associated with these fieldstones were apparent to the eye, if not to the camera.
These graves were located toward the eastern side of the cemetery, along the southern edge of the drainage area through the north end of the cemetery.

Lacy Cemetery, 75-1, Redstone Arsenal, Madison Co. AL, May 1, 2003
Note box crypt under trees on south side of drainage ditch through cemetery.
Four uninscribed stones marking graves were found in this cemetery which can hold around 250 to 300 graves if full. However, only about 20 obvious grave depressions were located. These were mostly near the north end of the cemetery.
