

Another measure of the trust and esteem held by John Timmons in the community was record below, where he was granted Power of Attorney by Benjamin Jones in 1831 to sell a quarter section of land to George McLeod, another pre-arsenal pioneer.

The careful consideration for the provision of others by John Timmons is shown in the detail of his Last Will & Testament, as given in the inserts below. The first-inserted version of his will is in John Timmons' own handwriting. However, it was difficult to read (faded and on thin paper that bled through the image of the writing on the opposite side of each sheet), so the version transcribed into the Probate Court record book is also shown immediately afterward. It is somewhat easier to read.
