

93	346370	Hill, Alexander Head	10 7	11 13 60	Alabama	Alabama	Alabama	Alabama	General farm	1901	42
94		Josephine Wife		11 13 57	Georgia	Georgia	Georgia	General farm	1901	42
95		Josephine Daughter		11 13 57	Alabama	Alabama	Georgia	General farm	1901	42

98	346361	Hill, William B Head	10 7	11 13 57	Alabama	Alabama	Alabama	General farm	1901	37
99		Maria Wife		11 13 39	Tennessee	Tennessee	Tennessee	General farm	1901	37
100		Samuel C Daughter		11 13 18	Alabama	Georgia	Tennessee	General farm	1901	37

66	353327	Sharpe, Thomas J Head	10 7	11 13 60	Tennessee	Tennessee	Tennessee	General farm	1901	46
67		Mary Wife		11 13 29	Tennessee	Tennessee	Tennessee	General farm	1901	46
68		Margaret C Daughter		11 13 17	Alabama	Tennessee	Tennessee	General farm	1901	46
69		Thompson Mary C Daughter		11 13 24	Tennessee	Tennessee	Tennessee	General farm	1901	46
70		Phillip C Daughter		11 13 6	Alabama	Tennessee	Tennessee	General farm	1901	46
71		Harriet C Daughter		11 13 9	Tennessee	Tennessee	Tennessee	General farm	1901	46

Excerpts from the Federal Census (National Archives and Records Administration via Ancestry.com) (Top) Excerpt of 1920 Census Record Showing Alex Hill Owning a Farm (Middle) Excerpt of 1920 Census Record Showing William Hill Owning a Farm (Above) Excerpt of 1920 Census Record Showing Thomas J. Sharpe Owning a Farm (Right) A Drawing of the Original Bridge of Bridgeport, Circa 1860 (Terry Platt, Digital Alabama)

Railroad in 1917, and a Rosenwald school - one of the three in Jackson County.

Bridgeport School***

According to the Fisk-Rosenwald database, the Bridgeport School was a two-teacher, two-room schoolhouse built in 1929. It cost a total of $3,080 to construct with $830 coming from the African American community, $500 from the white community, $1,250 of public funds, and $500 from the Rosenwald Fund. It was also insured for $2,235. The building was still intact when the National Register district was nominated in 2002, but has since been rebuilt or extensively refurbished by the Apostle Church of Jesus Christ located on Fifth Street, south of Erich Avenue.