 $\frac{\text{September 20, 1843}}{\text{Died on Friday}} \text{ the 8th inst in the 12th year of his age, JAMES A.}$ HOBDAY, son of STARK and ELIZA HOBDAY of Coosa County. The deceased was first taken with a headache and sick stomach then with a bilious fever and cold extremities. Two physicians were called in, who gave their medical aid, and applied their usual treatment; but all medical skill, the efficacy of medicine, as well as the care and unremitting attention of relatives and friends proved unavailing to effect his recovery. After about twelve days sickness he gradually declined and finally the spirit left the tenement of clay. When the symptoms of death began to appear, he was told by an aged friend to give himself up to the care of the Saviour and to trust to Him and His merits, and that he need not dread the terrors of death. He was asked by mother if he felt willing to die; he appeared in the affirmative. She asked him if he wished to reall his the terrors of death. He was asked by mother if he felt willing to die; he answered in the affirmative. She asked him if he wished to tell his Father (who was from home at the time) that he was willing to die, and to meet him in Heaven; he replied again in the affirmative. He was naturally of a mild and pliable disposition; obedient to parents, affectionate to friends, inoffensive and unassuming among his acquaintance. He has left behind him an affectionate father and mother, several sisters, an infant brother with other relatives and friends to bemoan their loss; yet they would not give vent to their sorrows like those who have no hope, but would acquiesce to the Divine will and would say with one of former days who passed through the furnace of affliction, "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord."
