In memory of JOSEPH RICE, deceased.

JOSEPH RICE, Esq. died at the residence of his brother-in-law W. R. JONES near New Market, Ala. of acute bronchitis on Monday, February 12, 1883 at 12:15 p.m. in his 86th year. The deceased was born Nov. 5, 1797 in Cooke (Cocke?) County, Tennessee, whither his parents removed to Buncombe, N.C., and in 1806 to the vicinity of what is now New Market in Madison County, which was organized as a County by the Mississippi Territorial Legislature in 1805. His father, SPENCER RICE, dying in 1808, his mother went back to North Carolina taking JOSEPH and his younger brothers LEVI and GEORGE with her. In a few months she died, leaving these little boys to the care of her sister, MRS. SARAH McCATHY. The subject of this sketch and his brother LEVI, young as they were, wishing to live in Alabama, set out on foot and in less than two weeks were again at the present New Market where JOSEPH RICE has since resided, except for six years when he lived in Dallas County, Ala.

In 1813, when about 16 years old he served under GENERAL JACKSON as a volunteer in the Creek War and (a friend informs us) was one of a
